PAL

HISTORY & INFORMATION

PAL first began as part of the New York Police Department (NYPD) in 1914 when Police Captain John Sweeney and Police Commissioner Arthur Woods became increasingly alarmed about juvenile delinquency in the tenements of the Lower East Side. In response, Sweeney and Woods recognized the need to create safe, supervised public spaces where children could freely play. Together, they transformed 29 city streets and vacant lots into PAL PLAYSTREETS.

Police officers and volunteers turned these closed city streets into vibrant, active community spaces where neighborhood youth could congregate for sports and games. PAL PLAYSTREETS not only connected at-risk youth with adult role models, but they helped bridge an increasing divide between law enforcement and the community. This pioneering effort launched a youth service philosophy that would become a best practice model for crime prevention and youth development throughout the country.

The Police Athletic League (or PAL) is New York City's largest independent youth development not-for-profit organization. PAL operates diverse programs from Head Start, Day Care and Universal Pre-K programs; to elementary and middle school after-school programs; and summer day camps and summer Playstreets. PAL runs evening teen centers; and college readiness programs, as well as youth employment, juvenile justice programs. Competitive and recreational sports for children of all ages is a cornerstone of PAL's youth development strategy.

With over 100 years of service, PAL continues to build upon its foundation, refining its program models based on emerging best practices in education and youth development. This foundational commitment to excellence has led the way for PAL to become what it is today: the largest youth service provider in New York City, serving over 20,000 youth, ages 2-24 in all five boroughs. PAL is also one of the first civilian-run Police Athletic Leagues.

Mission Statement: The Police Athletic League, together with NYPD and the law enforcement community, supports and inspires New York City youth to realize their full individual potential as productive members of society.

2020 TIMELINE

While we wish we could cover all that happened in 2020, there is not enough space. Here are just a few of the highlights from 2020 at the Police Athletic League.

PAL's Poetry Jam and Art Contest took place virtually.

PAL launched a virtual nutrition program with Cornell Cooperative Extension. Recipes and ingredients were sent to each household that signed up for the six-week program. The classes were taught by PAL teens who were trained by Cornell Cooperative Extension.

PAL announced summer camp plans and the PAL Playstreets schedule.

In Harlem, PAL partnered with NYC DOT, Bike New York, and Building Healthy Communities to help children to safely learn how to ride a bike.

PAL launched Street Games at the Polo Grounds in Manhattan and in Staten Island. There was basketball, dodgeball, inflatables and time spent with NYPD officers.

PAL held its first ever Virtual Gala to raise money for PAL programs. The event was hosted by board members and PAL alumni – Tony Danza and Chris Canty. This event raised over $500,000.

The first ever PAL Tree Lighting took place outside in the New South Bronx Center with special appearances by NYPD Commissioner Dermot Shea and Santa Claus! Children were treated to gifts, hot chocolate, snacks and games.

Participants made cards thanking the NYPD and medical personnel during the pandemic.

PAL threw a virtual block party complete with a DJ for an Instagram dance party.

Without team sports, PAL hosted a virtual event with college athletes so youth could learn more about the sports college experience.

The winners of the Spring Floral Contest were announced virtually: Congrats to PAL Richmond Center and PAL PS 41 Center!

PAL held virtual graduation ceremonies for youth in the after-school programs.

The winner of the 75th annual Police Commissioner for a Day essay competition was awarded to Olivia from New Utrecht High School in Brooklyn in our first ever virtual ceremony.

NYPD Community Affairs and the Police Athletic League hosted a Snack and Paint for Harlem Centers Summer Day Camp participants.

PAL celebrated #LightsOnAfterschool. The Police Athletic League's after-school programs keep young people safe and help promote positive habits.
